CRUSHED MICROBES.

Administered by Hypodermic Injection for Cure of Typhoid Fever.

Dr. MacFadyen First Freezes the Bacteria in Liquid Air and Then Grinds Them Into Pulp—Juices Obtained Highly Toxic.

Lord Lister has communicated to the Royal Society, London, a paper by Dr. Allan MacFadyen, director of the Jenner Institute of Preventive Medicine, setting forth an efficient prophylactic and curative treatment for typhoid fever.

Dr. MacFadyen found that by crushing the microscopic cells of the typhoid bacillus in liquid air the intercellular juices can be obtained apart from their living organism, and that these juices are highly toxic.

By injecting them in small, repeated doses into a living animal its blood serum is rendered powerfully anti-toxic, that is to say, it becomes an antidote alike to living typhoid bacteria and to the poison that may be extracted therefrom. Dr. MacFadyen explains the application of the serum to animals and details his various experiments, which showed that the serum is a curative of typhoid as well as a protective against infection.

It may be contended that what is true in the case of one pathogenic bacterium is also true in others, but Dr. MacFadyen is not satisfied to accept this hypothesis without experimental verification, and the Jenner institute is now investigating the juices of other bacteria.

If the experiments prove, as may be expected, that bacterial juices in general react upon the animal organism in the same way as the living bacteria which produces them, the fact must profoundly influence medical speculation and practice.

Regarding the crushing of bacteria, the question naturally arises by what unimaginable accuracy of grinding can these infinitesimal organisms be broken so as to release the intercellular toxins. The answer that the crushing is done with liquid air does not explain the whole of the marvel, for it is known that the intense cold of liquid air does not affect the vitality of bacteria, but when thus frozen hard they become brittle, and, notwithstanding their almost inconceivable minuteness, can be completely broken up by grinding, and will under no subsequent conditions show a sign of bacterial growth.

HAS A PASSION FOR DRESS.

Czarina of Russia Appeared at Recent Ball with Gown Costing $3,000,000.

The czarina has been displaying of late such a passion for magnificent costumes that it excites much comment. It is feared that it is another manifestation of the "curious disease" which brought sorrow to the court last year.

At the latest ball in the winter palace she appeared astonishingly arrayed. She wore a white velvet dress with a train four yards long, embroidered with gold flowers, in the center of which was a diamond of unusual luster. Over the dress was a veil fastened to her hair with a snow white bird the size and shape of a species of pigeon, which is only found on the remote arctic shores of the white sea. The wings were outstretched and studded thickly with diamonds, the eyes being replaced by brilliant rubies. The beak was fashioned from a piece of rare coral which the czar brought home from his journey around the world.

The czarina's majestic figure, crowned with this striking headdress, combined with a strange, faraway look in her eyes, gave her the supernatural beauty of a heroine from some old saga or Norse tale. Her dress and jewelry alone represented a value of more than $3,000,000.

WORK OF TRACT SOCIETY.

Report Shows That During the Year Millions of Publications Have Been Distributed.

The Washington annual meeting of the American Tract society was held the other evening in the Metropolitan Presbyterian church, at Washington, the Rev. Dr. George N. Luccock, pastor. Justice Brewer, of the United States supreme court, presided. The Rev. Judson Swift, field secretary at New York, gave a brief report, and Gen. O. O. Howard delivered an address. The report said that the society was organized 78 years ago "to diffuse knowledge of Christ as the redeemer of sinners" by means of the printed page.

During the year publications have been issued in English, German, Italian, Bohemian, Polish, Hungarian, Spanish, Bengalese, Bulu, Fang, and Marshall Island, and the number of distinct publications reach nearly 9,000, of which over 2,000 are volumes. The whole number of tracts and periodicals reaches nearly 800,000,000, which does not include the millions of tracts and volumes issued at missionary stations in foreign lands. The demand for Christian literature in the mission stations throughout the world is greater than it has been for three quarters of a century.

BLUE JAYS HUNT SNAKES.

The Birds Have a Very Strong Antipathy Toward All Venomous Reptiles.

It is commonly supposed that all birds, at least those of the small species, fall easy victims to snakes. There are stories innumerable of the manner in which the reptiles charm the feathered creatures and end by swallowing them at a gulp. But there is one bird that is not susceptible to the fascination of his snakeship's eye, and that is the common blue jay, found in the woods all over the United States, says the Chicago Chronicle.

A gentleman who has lived for many years in the country asserts positively that the blue jay can speak at least one word as plainly as a human being and that word is "snake." "When a boy," he said recently, "I killed many snakes that would have escaped but for the sharp eyes of the blue jay. Some species of reptiles will climb small trees and bushes and trap their prey in that manner. They feed on small birds principally. But they never catch a jaybird. He is the snake detective for the whole bird family. As soon as a blue jay sees a snake he sounds the alarm. You can hear him squall a quarter of a mile, and he articulates the word 'snake' as plainly as I can. He will hop about on a limb and yell 'snake! snake!' in such a shrill, excited voice that pretty soon others of his tribe hasten to the scene, and all join in giving the alarm. All other birds, hearing this warning cry, fly away, but the blue jay splits his throat with cries until the enemy has disappeared.

"A snake once caught a blue jay by charming him. The jay yelled 'Snake! snake!' at the top of his voice. Several hundred blue jays flew to his rescue and pecked the snake's eyes out, and literally plucked him to pieces, thus saving the life of their companion. Ever since that time the blue jay, upon seeing a snake, gives the alarm and all blue jays within hearing will hasten to the scene and lend their voices to the warning. This may sound incredible, but it's true," said the narrator in conclusion. "Not at all, but it's a good story to forget under the circumstances," added the nervous young man, who at once proposed the consideration of the relation of the jocund grape to the doctrine of metempsychosis.

SPINSTERS HAVE A UNION.

Bachelor Girls of Advanced Age Propose to Abolish the Male Celibates.

The spinsters of Adams county, Pennsylvania, with headquarters at York, have recently been forming old maid societies to engage in various social diversions calculated to attract the bachelors, reports an eastern exchange.

At Gardner's Station the Old Maids' union held a left-hand social recently, at which all the old maid societies of the county were represented. The social was held at the home of Rev. Mr. Rhoades and Miss Ida Rhoades was assisted in receiving by Miss Aggie Zeigler and Miss Rebecca Myers. The guests were required to receive the refreshments with the left hand, the right hand of each guest being tied behind her.

These resolutions were unanimously adopted:

"Whereas, the need of a good husband has long been felt as a pressing necessity, and repeated efforts have been made to induce the legislature of Pennsylvania to enact a law that would compel all bachelors throughout the commonwealth to marry; therefore;

"Resolved by the Old Maid society of Gardner's Station, That we do hereby most earnestly request (not our present representatives of Adams county to use their best efforts and cast their vote for the enactment of a law that will compel all bachelors to marry, but) all men between ages of 28 and 45, who are in hunt of good companions address the secretary, Old Maid Society, Gardner's Station, Pa."

Lafayette Statue Plashed.

The large statue of Lafayette, presented to Paris by Americans, is soon to be dedicated. When finished the statue will be the combined work of American artists on both sides of the Atlantic. The great bronze figure was modeled by a talented American sculptor living in Paris, Bartlett, while a clever Boston architect, Hastings, supplied the pedestal, made in pieces, which have been numbered and shipped to France.

AMERICAN IS GODLY.

Parting Opinion of Gen. Booth, of the Salvation Army.

After Touring This Country, He Declares People More Religious Than British Because They Think—Prayer Not Jeered.

"The American is more religious naturally than the Englishman. He thinks." This is the tribute of General Booth, the head of the Salvation army, to his late hosts. "You can pray," he added, "in an American crowd, and they will not laugh. They will listen. I never heard a jeer nor saw a sneer all the time I was there. You see the difference in the newspapers. They are a perfect contrast to the English ones. My meetings were reported in nearly every city more fully than in the War Cry. They wrote what happened, as if the writer understood what religion is.

"An English journalist would be afraid to let it be supposed that he had the slightest sympathy with that sort of thing.

"In American journalists present the public with the best idea they can of what actually takes place, and leave the public to judge the merits. It is just the same with a prize fight, a murder, or a divorce case. They give everything as fully as they can.

"You must be careful of how you judge the state of public opinion by what appears in the English newspapers. For instance, next Sunday at Liverpool I probably will have 10,000 people to hear me. The three meetings will be crowded, no doubt, with intent, united hearts, yet the newspapers on Monday will give perhaps three inches to the whole thing."

When asked if he found the gambling fever strong in the United States, Gen. Booth replied: "Yes. They gamble on everything, especially stocks. A man cannot live on bread alone. He must have other interests, and some excitement. I say, give it to him in the form of religion. That will satisfy the natural desire for excitement."

GRAVEYARD FIGURES.

New York State Board of Health Reports 124,100 Deaths in the State in 1902.

The report of the New York state board of health shows that the general sanitary condition of the state compared with former years is satisfactory. The total of the deaths reported during the year was 124,100, a death rate of 17 per 1,000 population. This is the average death rate for the five preceding years. There were 5,000 less than the average deaths occurring under five years of age.

The mortality from preventable diseases was 14 per cent. of the total. Smallpox caused a total of 442 deaths for the year, and typhoid fever 1,318 deaths, 300 less than the annual average for the past five years.

The deaths from pulmonary consumption were 12,562, a decided decrease from preceding years. This is believed to be largely due to the measures for prevention, which are being more thoroughly understood by the public, as well as the medical practitioners who have charge of these cases in their incipient stage.

FRENCH DOCTORS AT OUTS.

Are Engaged in a Violent Quarrel Regarding the Nutritive Properties of Alcohol.

Paris medical authorities are divided as to whether alcohol is nourishing or not, and the dispute has reached the point where each faction has placarded the "dead walls" with posters appealing to "the good sense" of the public. Dr. Du Claux, of the Pasteur institute, assisted by Messrs. Atwater and Benedict, has made some experiments, which satisfies him that diluted brandy taken in small quantities ranks high as nourishment for man, and will soon be used for animals.

Such members of the academy of medicine and science as Dr. Metchnikoff, a distinguished Russian scientist; Dr. Charles Richet, whose works on the digestive system are widely read, and Mr. Berthelot condemn the use of alcohol as food. Some admit that diluted brandy in very small quantities may be nourishing, but asks who would stop at a small quantity or dilute it. Wine they recommend in moderate quantities.

Now Make Oriental Carpets.

The famous Gobelin tapestry manufactory seems likely to achieve new honors in the fabrication of textiles. After a long preliminary course of experiment and study, the manufactory has now taken up the weaving of oriental carpets. Some of the first specimens seen this week at the factory were equal to anything done in the east.

THREE QUARTETTES

To Sing Sunday Afternoon at the District Sunday School Convention at Mill Creek.

The annual district convention of the Seventh district of the Mason County Sunday School Association will be held at Mill Creek Church, Sunday afternoon, June 14th, at 2 o'clock. The Maysville quartette, composed of Dr. Smoot and Rev. Dr. Barbour, Rev. R. E. Moss and Mr. Boyd Muse will be present and render one or two numbers. The Flemingsburg female quartette and the male quartette of the same place have also signified their intention of being present and taking part in this convention. The President, Mr. W. P. King, has arranged the other part of the program and no doubt it will be of a very interesting character. Everybody should get ready to attend this convention next Sunday afternoon, which promises to be one of the most interesting ever held.

In this connection, please let the officers of the other districts bear in mind that they are expected to do some work in making preparations for their conventions. Also that every district in the county is expected to hold a Sunday school convention July 4th, which will embrace all the schools within these respective districts.

STRICKEN AT BANQUET.

Past Grand Master James W. Staton Paralyzed While at Masonic Meeting at Paris.

Mr. James W. Staton, of Brooksville, Past Grand Master of Kentucky Masons, who was Wednesday a guest of honor at the laying of the corner stone of the Paris court house, was stricken with paralysis while seated at the banquet table shortly after 12 o'clock that night. He was removed to the home of Dan W. Peed, where he was in a critical condition when the Maysville Knights left there Friday morning. The Paris Lodge conferred the third degree for the benefit of the Past Grand Master and other distinguished visitors, and after the initiation a banquet was served in the lodge room by the ladies of the city. It was while seated at this banquet that he was suddenly stricken.

Mr. Staton has for years been one of the leading Masons in Kentucky. He had reached the ripe age of seventy or more, and until the time he was stricken was in the full enjoyment of his physical and mental faculties.

HON. "JACK" HENDRICK.

Financial Embarrassment of a Former Resident of Flemingsburg and Once Popular State Official.

NEW YORK, June 10.—W. J. Hendrick, of this city, to-day filed a petition in bankruptcy in the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York. The assets are stated at approximately $400,000, and the liabilities at $177,000. Hendrick was a promoter, and had offices in Louisville and Frankfort, Ky. He came to this city in 1899. The largest part of his liabilities are owed to creditors in Frankfort, Louisville, Lexington and Paris, Ky., and in Cincinnati, Ohio.

In Cincinnati the creditors are: F. Schultz, $350; Alex. McDonald, $5,000; E. K. Stallo, $2,500; John Skittle & Co., $550; Joseph R. Peebles's Sons Co., $250 Wapakoneta, Ohio, M. D. Shaw, $1,500. In Louisville the liabilities are $8,435, the Columbia Finance and Trust Company being the largest creditor, $4,000. In Frankfort, Ky., there are nineteen creditors, the largest being the State National Bank, $427 50. There are $14,000 liabilities in Flemingsburg, $4,400 in Paris and $12,500 in Paintsville, Ky.

Death of Mr. Fred Bode.

Mr. Fred Bode died Thursday morning at 9:30 o'clock, of consumption. He was forty-eight years of age and had been sick about four months. The funeral takes place this afternoon at 2 o'clock (standard time), from the home of Mr. Jacob Cahlisch, Forest avenue. Burial in Maysville Cemetery.

Mr. Bode was a member of the German Relief Society, and the P. O. S. A. Lodge, also of the Washington Fire Company. He leaves three sisters.

Sam Price was fined $50 and costs in the Police Court Thursday for striking and beating Clitha Thomas. He had just finished working out a fine on another job. Sam seems to prefer working on the streets of the city for nothing, than to behave himself and work for some one else for pay.

NO HOME, NO TAXES.

How Richest Woman Escapes Personal Property Obligations.

In Interview in New York, Hetty Green Declares She Keeps Rotating Between That City and Chicago to Escape Assessors.

Hetty Green is without a home. This is not due to dispossession nor has Mrs. Green lost her fortune. She does not want a home, because taxes have to be paid where you have a home.

"I am simply rotating between here and Chicago," Mrs. Green told a New York reporter the other day at the Chemical bank, which for years has been her business headquarters. "I was proved to be a nonresident of New York several years ago, and so, of course, I don't pay taxes here. I have had friends in this bank for many years, and they allow me to come here and get my mail and telegrams."

Mrs. Green's personal abiding place here has always been transitional.

"Since my husband died," continued the richest woman in America, "I have had no special home of my own. My daughter is in Bellows Falls, Vt., and my son is in Texas. My business calls me here and to Chicago, so I simply keep going back and forth. It's none of my business what other people do about their taxes, or where they live, or what they may do. I had myself proved a nonresident and that was all that concerned me."

It was suggested that some rich men in New York had declared themselves nonresidents, but because of their large realty holdings here had volunteered to pay taxes on a certain amount of personality. Hetty Green was asked if she approved of this policy.

"Just let me tell you," she replied, firmly, "they won't get any of my money in that way. The others can do it all they want to. I pay what I have to."

Niblo has said that he was trying to get Mrs. Green to become a director in his gold mining concern. Mrs. Green was asked if she intended to do this.

"No," she answered, instantly; "I wouldn't be director in anything. I am not director in my own railroads."

"Why not?" was asked. "Because I don't think it's a woman's place to be a director. Let the men be the directors."

"You think women can own companies and collect dividends on stock, but that men should do the directing?"

"Yes, that's my idea," was the reply. Mrs. Green said she had a vast number of people appealing to her constantly for advice as to what they should do about property they owned. She said she nearly always advised them to form corporations to take care of it. That was the advice she gave Niblo, and that was all the interest she felt in it, she declared.

ETHNOLOGICAL EXPEDITION.

Effort Made to Preserve Mythological and Linguistic Lore of Indians of Northern California.

An interesting report of an ethnological expedition taken through the fast disappearing Indian tribes of northern California by scientists from the University of California has been issued. Among the objects of the expedition was the gathering of mythological and linguistic information from such tribes as the Pomo, Athapascans, Hupas, Chimarkos, Sasene, Yuroks, Kuroks, Shastas and Wishokas. Word lists were secured, in many cases from the sole surviving members of an almost extinct tribe, and with such meager vocabularies as these afforded an effort was made to trace relationships between the northern tribes. Several Indians have been brought to Berkeley for the purpose of reproducing the languages orally so that they may finally be transcribed by the Rousselot apparatus for recording sounds.

FOR A FREE CHINA.

Agents of Progressive Element Start Movement with Branches in United States and Europe.

Secret agents of Chinese progress in New York city have received private information from San Francisco that the crusade for the liberation of China is to begin at once. America is to be the headquarters of Kang Yu Wal, the young reformer and ex-member of the Tsungli-Yamen, who seeks through his society, the Bow Wong Wui (Society for the Protection of the Emperor) to make Kwang Hsui emperor in fact as well as name. Kang Yu Wal, it is rumored, is now on the Pacific, bound for this country, and after establishing the main office of his propaganda here will tour the world, organizing branches in the various capitals of Europe.

"A STEP IN ADVANCE."

The Lexington Herald says that the enjoined resolution recently adopted by the School Board of that city is "the furthest step in advance that has been taken in the proper control of the public schools since the present charter of the city of Lexington was adopted." This step in advance is simply the adoption of a policy which controlled the schools of the city of Maysville for many years. Under the administration of Mayor Cox [and of his successor, Mayor Stallcup, until very recently,] there were "no removals without cause." In this respect the present charter has not improved the methods of the past. The Lexington resolution says:

"In removing any superintendent, principal or teacher, a two-thirds vote shall be necessary and the cause or causes of said removal shall be fully set forth in writing, with the name or names of the party or parties preferring charges signed thereto; and said charges shall be duly investigated by the proper authorities before being acted upon by said Board of Education, and said superintendent, principal or teacher shall have a hearing before this board."

The public schools of Maysville were never more prosperous, nor our educational methods more effective than under the operation of this wise and salutary rule. The predicted results of its violation have been realized to the letter. Maysville takes a step backward as Lexington "takes a step in advance." It is to be hoped she will make some effort to retrieve the ground she has lost.

THE RECORDS.

The records in the office of the Secretary of State, in reference to pardons issued since 1895 to residents of Breathitt County, show that Governor Bradley during his term of office pardoned seven men convicted of felonies and restored to citizenship or gave the right to vote to thirteen men who had served terms and returned to that county. One of the seven felons had a life sentence, three were sent up for manslaughter and two for arson.

During Governor Beckham's term pardons have been granted to seven felons and twenty were restored to citizenship. Two former convicts and one felon had a ten-year sentence, four had shorter sentences for manslaughter and two for smaller offenses.

The act of restoring to citizenship is not a pardon, but simply gives the right to vote to a former convict who has served his term out and is recommended by his neighbors as worthy to vote again.

According to the records Beckham and Bradley are tied as to the number of pardons granted to Breathitt County felons. They and their predecessors in office have all been too liberal in handing out pardons.

Mrs. Bertha W. Edmonds has sold all her right, title and interest of whatever kind in the real and personal estate of her late husband, Allen A. Edmonds, to his sisters, Mrs. John Duley and Miss Mollie T. Edmonds.

The Flemingsburg and Y. M. C. A. ball teams will play this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Sixth ward park. The Flemingsburg nine were unable to come last Monday, but they arrived this morning and there will be no disappointment.

THE HIGH SCHOOL.

Immense Audience Thronged Opera House to Witness Annual Commencement.

Class of Thirteen Awarded Diplomas—Gratifying Close to a Successful Year's Work.

The Maysville High School commencement at the opera house last night was in every respect a marked success.

From the opening with an impressive prayer by Rev. H. T. Musselman to the close with a scholarly and masterful address by Mr. C. L. Sallee, President of the Board of Education, the entire program from beginning to end was rendered with rare talent and grace.

The opera house was crowded from pit to dome by the friends and admirers of the graduates and spectators interested in the education of Maysville's youth.

The stage was beautifully and artistically decorated in the class colors of 1903, and a graduating class of thirteen, seven boys and six girls, together with the teachers in the High School and President Sallee occupied seats on the stage.

When the curtain arose thirty boys and girls were grouped about the stage, and with the aid of the Maysville Orchestra's music sang "Commencement Day" in a way that inspired the audience with its melody. After the invocation by Rev. Musselman twenty young ladies, beautifully gowned in white robes, participated in the fan drill, which for intricacy and novelty has never been approached in Maysville on any previous occasion, and it was the consensus of opinion among the audience that the young ladies acted it with rare grace and perfection, manifesting such a thorough acquaintance with the discipline of the drill as to reflect great credit upon themselves and their worthy teachers who have been so untiring in their efforts to make the commencement of 1903 pre-eminently successful, and who now have the satisfaction of seeing their efforts crowned with an unparalleled success.

To attempt to select from among the essays, orators and declaimers of last evening those who deserve especial mention would require that we give the name of each graduate who took part on the program, for each did his or her part so well that it would require a more discriminating taste than we possess to enable us to decide upon any particular person or persons as superior to the others in their efforts, but it is only fair and right to say that the young ladies showed greater elocutionary powers and a more intimate acquaintance with their subjects that the young men, although the latter displayed their talent unusually well. Unable to discriminate between the graduates relative to their comparative excellence, we simply say that each did himself or herself proud, making glad the hearts of teachers, relatives and friends, adding an additional impetus to the educational spirit so prevalent in Maysville, causing all persons interested in public schools to glow with a pardonable pride, and acquitted themselves in a manner satisfactory to the Board of Education.

A pleasing and acceptable feature of the program was the singing of the male quartet, composed of Rev. Dr. Barbour, Rev. Moss, Dr. Smoot and Mr. Muse.

President Sallee in delivering the diplomas took occasion to pay a tribute to the public schools of Maysville, and to education generally, that deserves special

Mr. Henry Bertram, boots and shoes of 225 Market street, says: The great value of Doan's Kidney Pills are quickly proven. I procured them at J. Jas. Wood & Son's drug store, corner of West Second and Market streets. In a very short time I was cured of backache which had troubled me for some time. I gave some to a friend who suffered greatly from kidney ailments, and he said the results obtained from their use proved that Doan's Kidney Pills are a preparation which possesses remarkable value."

There are two reasons why we do so. First, we buy the best Shoes in the world and sell them at legitimate prices. Second, we don't want anybody's money without giving value for it. MAYSLICK'S LOSS.

Fire Thursday Afternoon Destroyed Many Buildings and Threatened Entire Town.

Loss Falls Heavily on Most of Sufferers, as Many Had No Insurance.

Mayslick was visited Thursday afternoon by the most destructive fire in her history. The blaze started about 3 o'clock in the loft of Ryan's livery stable, but the origin is not known. Mr. Ryan was absent at the time and some of his employees were in charge. A strong wind was blowing and the people had no modern means of fighting the flames, depending on the work of a bucket brigade to save their property. The entire town was threatened with destruction at one time, but the wind abated somewhat and the flames were finally gotten under control.

Following is a list of the losses compiled by Dr. Edwin Matthews and others who hurried to the scene as soon as the telephone brought news of the conflagration:

Pat Ryan, livery, sale and feed stable. Loss $5,000; no insurance.
Wm. Worthington, livery stable, machine shop and farming implement store. Loss $3,000; no insurance.
Herbert Owsley, hotel, saloon and blacksmith shop. Loss $2,500; no insurance.
Oddfellows and K. of P. Hall. Loss $3,500; insurance $2,000.
Scott Collins, undertaker. Loss $2,000; no insurance.
Bank of Mayslick. Damage $800, covered by insurance.
Dwelling belonging to I. O. O. F. Total loss; no insurance.
Wm. Hutchison, residence. Loss $900; no insurance.
Mrs. McLaughlin, residence. Loss $1,000; no insurance.

M. Young, hotel. Damage $500 to $600; insured.
Thomas P. Hopper. Loss $1,200; insured.
George Webber, blacksmith shop. Loss $800; no insurance.
James M. Myall. Loss on feed in Ryan's stable several hundred dollars. No insurance.
Mrs. Josh Clary's residence badly damaged. Loss several hundred dollars; no insurance.

There were numerous other small losses in addition to the above. In 1876 about one-third of the town was burned, but that fire was not to be compared with Thursday's conflagration.

M. Young was badly burned about face and hands in fighting the flames. Wm. Robb was cut with glass. Mrs. Anna Wilson's fine stable was badly damaged, but her loss is covered by insurance. The Maysville Telephone Company's line was damaged somewhat, but the line was repaired in a short time.

People flocked to the scene from surrounding country and rendered valuable assistance.

Rev. Jos. Severance, who was visiting friends in the town, did heroic work. By his presence of mind and efficient work he no doubt saved many buildings. A number of Maysville people hurried to the town when the news was phoned.

ALL KINDS OF FIRE

With a good Gas Range you can cook your soup over a slow fire, which it needs, and your roast over a quick fire, and both at the same time. How can you do this any other way than with a GAS RANGE?

Gas Ranges At Factory Cost Price!

Never was such another opportunity afforded you to obtain so much value for the same money. During the month of June the Gas Company will, if so desired, make a written agreement with any purchaser of a Gas Range to the effect, that, if on the first day of August, said purchaser shall have become dissatisfied with the use of their Range, either for the reason that it will not do the work as represented, or that it costs too much to operate, then the Gas Company will take back the stove and refund any money paid upon its purchase price. The only thing to prevent you taking advantage of this offer is that the Ranges are sold quicker than they can be connected up, so if you are thinking of buying one, now is the time to decide. Over twenty installed during May and not a single complaint. For further particulars see the Gas Company and sample Ranges at Langfals & Co.'s.
